Washburn. This is a comedy of the speedy variety and is as full of action as an egg is of meat.

The second feature is Kathleen Clifford in The Law That Divides, a powerful five-part dramatic picture. She had been brought up as a crook, she knew no father or mother and lived by her wite. When she met a man that she really loved and he found out her past career, what do you think happened? The third feature is Fatty Arbuckle in his latest comedy rlot. A Desert Hero, guaranteed to cure all cases of the blues.

The bill at the Breed theatre for today and Saturday will consist of two star features and will be headed by Alice Brady in her latest Select picture. His Bridal Night. Alice Brady portrays two roles in this happy farce of matrimonial difficulties. She is vi and the is Tiny Playfair, although contrary to the accepted interpretation of their names neither one of the twins play fair. Vi is a heartless little coquette, while Ti is a quaint and faithful soul. On the hight of Vis wedding, she confides to her sister that she is going out for hight of VI's wedding, she confides to her sister that she is going out for one more little lark with an erst-while suitor. Tiny impersonates her twin sketer and the suitor thinks he is holding VI in his arms. Then comes the wedding and a quarrel. Vi runs off with the suitor, and Tiny runs off with the husband, and the climax is well worth wniting for. THE PASSING OF SUMMER

Summer in golden splendor lies, Summer is queen, but summer dies.

Background of spruce and dark green pine, Shower and shadow, sun and shine, Crimson clover with lifted face, Butterfly weed and Queen Anne's lace,

Under the blue skies and clouds of snow, Yellow daisies with black eyes grow; Mallows bright in the marsh grass haze, Goldenrod with its yellow blaze.

Summer in golden splendor lies, Summer is queen, but summer dies.

Autumn, eager the crown to sieze, Flaunts her banner on every breeze, Meadow and wayside blossom high, Quail's clear note and the plover's cry;

Cricket and tree toad calling shrill, Purple haze on the distant hill, Twilight and dawn in mist of gray, Lengthening night and shorter day.

Summer in golden splendor lies, Summer is queen, but summer dies.
